LEARNING OBJECTIVES
AFTER ATTENDING
THIS PRESENTATION,
ATTENDEES WILL

- To interrupt the Assumptions, Fears, and Past Negative Experiences in Self and Others
- To lead with a genuine compliment or positive feedback which short circuits the “threat mode” we enter into when engaging with leadership, clients, new situations, and others.
- To introduce Themselves as Treasure not Trash/Interact with others as Treasure not Trash
- The art of the Triple Nod, which research shows draws out 300% to 600% more words from people they are engaging with. This powerful key to opening other up is combined with several more keys, creating a strong social engine for positive momentum in interaction with new and old relationships.
- To inquire in ways that make others feel Seen, Felt, Valued, and Understood
- How to tip others toward warmth and authentic connection, especially when there is little time, by learning to mirror others effectively, ask strong questions, and seeking to understand not to solve.
- The power of these tools is their focus on one person at a time. We build intentionally, one person at a time, and when one person succeeds, we all succeed.

CYBERSECURITY IN THE OR: RISKS, TRENDS AND PREVENTATIVE MEASURES

Chad Holmes

From call center software to military logistics systems, Chad has spent nearly 20 years helping create, break and secure a variety of technologies while helping others learn to do the same. In that time one thing has become clear - hackers are often far less sophisticated than many are led to believe. Unfortunately, the shame and secrecy related to breaches naturally prevents sharing of valuable details and lessons that could help entire industries. In an effort to better educate leaders about their adversaries, risks and approaches, Chad discusses real-life incidents, attacker motives, victim response and various other factors.

In his role as Cynerio's Security Evangelist, Chad helps educate healthcare providers on the threats introduced by IoT, OT and Medical IoT devices throughout their organizations. As part of these efforts Chad discusses remediation and mitigation techniques, how to balance risk with functionality, and various industry approaches backed with a combination of research, data and real life examples. Prior to joining Cynerio Chad has held a variety of cybersecurity, development and marketing roles at companies including Red Hat, Accenture, Veracode, Security Innovation and Cigital.
