THE POWER OF STORIES: BUILDING A FOUNDATION FOR LIFE AND LEADERSHIP

DAVE SPANGLER

No stories of heroic deeds. No five step plans for more fame, more fortune, or more followers. Unplug and settle in for an authentic and uncensored conversation about real life. From timeshare to turkeys and construction to cancer Dave uses the stories of unique life and career experiences, success and failures to create an unusually personal connection with his audience and to challenge the way we view our world. The promising student destined for medical school confused family and friends at every turn with 30 years of head scratching life choices and a series of implausible adventures that tell a story of how purpose is found not in what we do but in who we are.

In Dave's words, "I am not a hero. I am not a titan of industry or a revolutionary. I have never saved a life or led an elite military organization. I love to hear the stories of people like that and there is much we can learn, but no matter how many stories I hear I find myself no closer to joining their ranks. I want to bring something more relatable and personal that will inspire you to see yourself and your world as something worthy of greatness."

After a variety of diverse careers, Dave has spent the last 14 years developing and leading the oncology management programs at Evicore Healthcare. He is a published research author and holds a technology patent for systems developed in the oncology space. He lives in Hilton Head, South Carolina with his wife of 22 years, Rion, and has two adult children, Coker and Caleb. He is an avid Do-It-Yourselfer and believes every broken thing is an opportunity for an upgrade!

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Focus on long term leadership over short term rewards
- Recognize that we are leading even when no one is following
- Build a leadership structure based on a simple solid foundation
- Evaluate success and failure in the context of a larger journey
