IMPROVING DEMENTIA CARE CAPABILITY WITH CARES® DEMENTIA 5-STEP METHOD

JOHN HOBDAY, MA

John Hobday is the CEO and Founder of HealthCare Interactive, Inc. (HCI), an edtech company founded in 1997 and headquartered in Minneapolis, Minnesota. HCI is dedicated to improving the quality of life for people living with dementia by providing evidence-based dementia care training, certification, and credentialing programs. He is an educator and Instructional Designer, software developer, and dementia researcher.

Mr. Hobday is the creator and developer of the CARES® Dementia 5-Step Method™ online training, certification, and credentialing programs. CARES programs and the CARES Dementia 5-Step Method are evidence-based, nationally award-winning, and widely published in academic literature. CARES is recognized by the Alzheimer's Association, the American Health Care Association, the National Center for Assisted Living, and is the only online dementia care training program to have ever been formally recognized by CMS.

John has collaborated directly with nationally known Alzheimer's and dementia researchers at organizations such as the Alzheimer's Association, Duke University, Emory University, Michigan State University, NYU School of Medicine, University of Iowa, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, University of South Florida School of Aging Studies, U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, and National Institutes of Health.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Identify the 5 steps of CARES® Dementia 5-Step Method and how it supports person-centered care for individuals living with dementia
- Explain to their staff how to modify their approach with residents to help reduce dementia-related behavior
- Describe how the evidence-based CARES® dementia care training and certification can result in a direct reduction in the use of antipsychotic medications
