ENGINEERING INTELLIGENCE - MULTICARE SUPPLY CHAIN

CO-SPEAKER: ANDY HAMILTON

Andy Hamilton serves as the AVP Supply Chain at MultiCare Health System (MHS) in Tacoma, Washington. He has held various responsibilities in Operations, Procurement and Inventory Control across the enterprise. Andy is experienced in developing and leading the execution of the Supply Chain strategic plan for MHS. Prior to joining MHS, he served in a variety of supply chain leadership at Providence Health & Services, most recently as the Senior Director for Supply Chain Operations in Eastern Washington.

He holds an MBA from Regis University and two BA's from Washington State University. Andy also holds a CMRP designation and is a fellow in the American College Healthcare Executives (FACHE).

CO-SPEAKER: MATTHEW PALCICH

Matthew Palcich serves as the System Director of Supply Chain Resource Analytics and Process Improvement for MultiCare Health System located in the Pacific Northwest. His passion for healthcare supply chain stretches back over a decade in various roles focused on tackling the evolving challenges of healthcare across a variety of healthcare delivery systems. Matt's passion for innovation and technology, balanced with a background in process engineering, change management and LEAN efficiency have shaped an approach to healthcare that brings people together to deliver success. Forged in the fire of 2020's supply chain challenges, Matt continues to lead the resource analytics team through the historic challenges of the pandemic to deliver actionable, accurate information and workflows to a broad spectrum of supply chain customers.

He holds an undergraduate degree in Economics from Western Washington University, an MBA from Pacific Lutheran University, and is a certified Lean Six Sigma Black Belt.

CO-SPEAKER: MATTHEW BALDWIN

Matt is an Implementation Manager within the supply chain system at MultiCare Health System. As an implementation manager on MultiCare's strategic sourcing team, he leverages the system's large data warehouse and data tools to develop advanced analytics tools. These tools look at resource utilization with a specific focus on improving outcomes, cost savings, and transparency in supply usage in procedural areas.

Prior to joining MultiCare and the healthcare world Matt worked with Amazon, Microsoft, and other start-ups in the Seattle area on operations and analytics work.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Detail how we developed MultiCare's technology and infrastructure
- Discuss how these tools are integrated with our Supply Chain teams and clinical partners
- Why our data analytics team develops the relationships to create usable outputs
- Outline what a typical role/org chart would look like to a small hospital to a mid-size IDN to drive implementation
